In the United States, the gaming industry has grown to a total of $10 billion i n 2010, and is projected to grow by $2 billion by 2015.

The NCGDR's recommendation is "based on a number of policy and industry considerations that have been articulated by the Department of Justice and the United States Congress.

" The NCGDR has proposed two proposed regulation schemes that would have a similar effect on the industry:

The second would require the industry to conduct a review of its gaming regulation policy on a case-by-case basis.

The first proposal would require the industry to review its gaming regulation po licy on a case-by-case basis.

The current regulations currently under review have not been made publicly available.
