Gucci has been copied since the 1980s, when Dapper Dan (a Harlem-based designer) started to appropriate its 'GG' logo onto his streetwear.

Inspired by these early knock-offs, Alessandro Michele created the 'Fake/No t' collection for Fall/Winter 2020 Men's Ready-to-Wear.

Using the retro Diamante print and red-green Web as his base, Michele released a line of clothing, accessories, bags, and shoes (including some of the brand's) Tj T* BT /F h the word 'FAKE' emblazoned across the front and 'NOT' across the back in bold, bright, and contrasting yellow letters.

Rather than letting counterfeiters get the best of the brand, Michele beat them at their own game, clapping back in a very tongue-in-cheek (and profitable) way

Do not want to waste your hard-earned money on a counterfeit? We have listed ten ways you can spot a fake Gucci bag.

If the secondhand piece you are considering displays even one of the following inaccuracies, keep shopping.

A pack of microfiber cleaning cloths that'll remove dirt and oil from your electronics so they're shiny as a daisy.

I have a toddler and it does a great job cleaning the kids' toys as well as the kids' toys.

It is nice and easy to clean.

A pack of stain and odor remover that's gonna make your bathroom look brand new.

A dishwasher cleaner and odor remover spray that'll clean up your dishes and remove all the nasty grime and odors.
